Royal Institution of Chartered Surveyors (RICS)

Surveyors design, build, manage and protect the planet through the work they do. Choosing a career as a Chartered Surveyor opens up a world of opportunities - whether you want to travel, work in a fast moving industry or become an expert in the technology of the future – surveying can take you there.

The Royal Institution of Chartered Surveyors (RICS) is the most sought after professional qualification in land, property, construction & infrastructure. We accredit 118,000 professionals across the world and our name promises the consistent delivery of standards – bringing confidence to the markets we serve. If you have a RICS accredited undergraduate degree, you're straight on the path to becoming a chartered surveyor - all you need to do is apply for a graduate scheme leading to the RICS qualification. Or if you already have a degree in a non-RICS subject then combine these skills and knowledge with a RICS Masters conversion degree, and start your journey towards the surveying profession.
